A BREWERY MERGER
IN FAYETTE COUNTY.*Quiet Plan to Consolidate the Nine Independent Plants
Under Way.*$10,000,000 RUMORED PRICE*Corporation Would Operate Separately
But Would Be Controlled by the Pittsburgh Brewing Company—Coke and Hotel Men Are Interested.

The coke merger may be dead, but the brewery merger is still alive and it is stated that those interested are hard at work upon it. It is reported that plans have been laid by which all of the nine breweries in Fayette county are to be consolidated, forming a corporation on a working basis of their own, but to be controlled by the Pittsburgh Brewing Company. The rumored price to be paid over for these breweries is over $10,000,000, and it may possibly be in excess of this before the merger is completed.

The present idea is to merge the earnings of the nine breweries and keep them separate from those of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, but to operate upon a more economical plan and also to control the sale of goods and prices on a better basis, breweries in certain districts selling only to persons living in that district, thus eliminating freight rates and cost of production of ice as well as labor. In other words beer drinkers would have to cultivate a taste for the brand of beer the brewers furnish or journey to the district of the brewery in the county they are partial to. There are many other elements that enter into the combination, whereby profits can be increased.

Besides the brewery men, the hotel men and the coke operators are interested in the merger. The coke operators have declared against the wholesale delivery of beer at their works. One prominent coke operator favors more hotels or drinking places, which would eliminate the wagons and the agents for the breweries, but it would increase the number of hotels. This operator sums the matter up in this way:

"There is a mistaken idea of what we want done with the liquor traffic at the coke works. We don't want to keep the men from getting their beer, what we want is a drinking place or hotel in certain districts where the men can go and get a drink if they want it. What we want to exclude is the delivery of kegs and barrels and cases of beer. It is a well known fact that if foreigners have a keg of beer more than they want they will drink it in order to keep it from spoiling. It is a well known fact that in the large coke towns or in certain districts we would have more sobriety."

With the brewery merger accomplished this may be brought about, but the question still remains will it be satisfactory to the hotel men now in business.

COUNCILMAN CANNOT FIND SMALL BLAZE*Although He Did Not Reach Scene,
There Was Blaze for Firemen to Fight.

Councilman William McCormick, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, had a wild goose chase early this morning after a fire, alarm from which was sounded for Box 511, at the corner of York and Gibson avenues. The alarm was reported to the fire department by the employees of the United States Express Company, at the Baltimore & Ohio depot, and Fireman Ira Gerns sounded the alarm from the nearest box.

The store of James Rush on North Arch street was as fire, but Councilman McCormick failed to find traces of it until after the fire wagon returned. He could not even find the wagon until the fire was out.

When the firemen arrived at the scene the entire store room was ablaze. There was fire in nearly every corner of the room. Prompt use of the chemicals extinguished the blaze. The firemen suspected the fire was of incendiary origin.

HOLIDAY RATES.Stated That Railroads Will Allow Them This Year.

With the approach of Thanksgiving and other holidays the granting of holiday rates on the railroads is a live topic. It is stated that at the meeting of the passenger officials in Chicago next Wednesday that an order will go out to the effect that the usual rates will be allowed this year.

There has been some contention about the matter on account of the two-cent rate prevailing in some sections of the country.

CULTURE CLUB FOR REFORM.A Petition Will Be Presented to Burgess Evans to Instruct Officers to Compel Boys to Abandon Chalk Night.

A movement has been inaugurated by the Woman's Culture Club to have the chalk nuisance abated on chalk night. Last year the matter was taken up by the club and as a result on the morning following chalk night the business houses and many of the private residences were not marked with chalk.

A petition was drawn up and sent to A. D. Soisson, who was Burgess at that time. He took up the matter and did all in his power to see that the habit of marking business houses and private residences was abandoned. A similar action will be taken this year by the club. In recent years the chalk nuisance has become a pest. Not only are public places and houses defaced, but the most obscene writings and drawings have been in shocking evidence the morning following chalk night. Another habit of the boys has been their custom of marking chalk on the clothing of pedestrians on the streets, women and men being treated alike frequently. Burgess Evans will likely instruct his officers to put a ban on chalk night this year.

Their Opposition to Postal Savings.*United Press Telegram.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 23.—President Taft handed the banking interests of the country a gentle rap today at Deshivo, Texas, where he stopped for a short address. He expressed the hope that the banks would withdraw their opposition to the postal savings bank, which he favors. Other countries, he said, have established postal savings banks without interfering with the banking interests.

"Where do you keep your money?" asked an enthusiastic listener. "I don't have much to keep," replied the President. "When a man in politics he is not allowed to save much."

The President arrived here this morning and made a short address. At 10:30 he left for Dallas, where he arrives this evening.

HALLOWE'EN PARADE
IN CONNELLVILLE.*Burgess Evans Issues Proclamation Suggesting One
This Morning.*WOULD PREVENT PETTY DAMAGE*Inflicted by the Small Boy—Meeting of Young Folks to Arrange General Plan, Suggested by the Burgess.

A fantastic parade for the celebration of Halloween is proposed by Burgess J. L. Evans. In a proclamation to the public this morning he asks that a celebration be gotten up for Saturday evening in order to prevent disorder. He thinks that it will be better for the whole town to join in one big parade of a fantastic character and especially the mischievous youngsters who find so much pleasure in taking off gates and committing other depredations.

In former years it has been the custom to destroy much property in outlying districts. Burgess Evans has determined to prevent this if possible by bringing all these mischievous inclined together and allow them to parade the streets until midnight.

He suggested that a committee of the younger folks get together and form some sort of working basis to make the parade a big success. Following is the proclamation of Burgess Evans:

Believing that it is better to have one large celebration on Halloween instead of permitting the promiscuous destruction of property in various parts of the town by questionable amusement seekers, I suggest that a Halloween parade be held on Saturday evening and that all of the young folks who desire to join in this parade and amuse themselves in that manner, I would suggest that all young folks meet on the South Side and have a fantastic parade over the streets of town. This demonstration must cease at 12 o'clock, midnight; otherwise arrests will follow.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Chief of Police Rottler of Connellsville was much surprised yesterday when he reached here to find that his attempt to take Joseph Gigante and Mrs. Rose Selma, with whom the former eloped a few days ago, had been foiled. Both are held by the police here. Gigante has money, he has the heart of Mrs. Selma, too, and they arranged for an attorney to fight their battle here. This fight is to come off in police court today.

Chief Rottler wired the husband of the woman to come here at once. It is expected he will be in police court to prosecute his wife and her son. Mrs. Selma has one child with her, the others are in Italy. She claims her husband has no string on her.

News.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 23.—The will of Hayden W. Robinson, late of Brownsville, where for many years he conducted a drug store and who died on October 11, was admitted to probate this morning. In this document the deceased expresses his great confidence he reposed in his wife by leaving his entire estate in her hands, valuing all inventories and appraisements.

He says, in the will, that provisions have already been made for the son, E. F. Robinson, he having been supplied with a liberal education and otherwise cared for. Owing to the small amount that is left, the wife gets all because it was accumulated principally because of her frugality, careful management and assistance. The good will of the drug store is willed to the son.

The document is dated November 11, 1892, and was witnessed by B. L. Shoemaker and George M. Rathmell. The trial has been issued for the adjourned term of court which will begin November 8 and continue two weeks. Seventy civil cases are scheduled for trial, 35 for each week. Attorney S. R. Goldsmith this morning entered suit in behalf of the Robinson Lumber Company of Mobile, Ala., to recover $10,114 alleged to be due from the Keystone Planing Mill Company of Connellsville for lumber sold and delivered.

Isaac R. Morgan has been committed to jail by Squire Allen Carson of Perryopolis on charges of larceny by bailment.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has filed its answer to the equity proceeding instituted by Joseph Laporte of Connellsville in which it asks the dismissal of the plaintiff's bill and the awarding of costs that have been incurred. Laporte is accused of gross negligence in filing his equity proceeding, having, it is alleged, permitted the work to go on for more than a month before instituting proceedings.

Laporte sought to have the railroad restrained from occupying a portion of Grape alley. After hearing the evidence and arguments in the case, the temporary injunction granted Laporte was dissolved.

Good prices were obtained at the assignee's sale in the Albert G. Moore property near Fairbreeze yesterday, which was conducted by Attorney George Patterson. The sale netted $750.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 23.—Except for attempts to assure themselves of safety, the European Colonial headquarters here are making no effort to ascertain the extent of death and destruction left in the wake of the stormwave East Bengal earthquake. It is reported from Quetta that 150 bodies were taken from the ruins today.

The local authorities are expected to cope with the conditions without calling on headquarters. The Anglo-India residents show greatest indifference to the fate of the natives, coming to expect the annual floods and epidemics will reduce the population. The deaths in the earthquake region, it is believed, will reach several thousand.

ONCE CULTIVATED
SILK WORMS HERE.*D. C. Hood Recalls Time
When Raw Material
Was Produced.*FED ON MULBERRY LEAVES*Mr. Hood Employed Gathering Leaves and Tails of Appetite Worms Had.
Man Named Kerr Ran Business Between 1836 and 1840.

While the business men are considering the silk mill proposition it is not generally known that Connellsville once figured on the silk map of the country. It was a good many years ago, but some of the old timers can remember when a man named Kerr cultivated silk worms over in New Haven. He had the bottom planted in white mulberry trees, feeding the worms on the leaves.

Daniel C. Hood, who is more than 80 years of age and doesn't look 50, told The Courier something about the silk worms yesterday. Mr. Hood said that, when but a little fellow, he used to gather the mulberry leaves for the worms. That was between 1836 and 1840. Mr. Kerr, the proprietor of the establishment, was in business for quite a number of years. Mr. Hood does not remember just how many, but he recalls that before the industry died out the mulberry bushes had attained a good growth.

Kerr had two sheds in which he kept his worms. They were placed on netting like a tennis net, or ash net. These were spread over the floor, but a few inches above it. The silk worms would weave their cocoons on the net.

"Those worms had an awful appetite," said Mr. Hood. "We filled the nets with leaves every morning and 24 hours later nothing would be left but the stems."

This branch of the silk industry flourished when Connellsville was but a small village and New Haven, only a collection of scattered houses. Mr. Kerr the proprietor of the silk worm establishment, would kill the worms by burning them, in order to preserve the cocoons, and then the raw silk was shipped eastward to be manufactured.

AGENT OF UNION WAS MURDERED IN NIGHT*But Robbery Was Apparently Not Motive for Killing Melville, Near Erie.*United Press Telegram.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 23.—The mutilated body of Melville W. Keene, aged 46, was found in the public roadway four miles west of here early today. The head was almost severed from the body and the man had been stabbed in several places. The back of his skull had also been crushed.

After an investigation the coroner stated that he believed Melville had been murdered with a corn sickle. Melville left home last night to walk to the street car and that was the last seen of him until his body was found this morning.

He was business agent of the carpenters' union and went to the Keene farm, west of here, for the evening. The police are working on the case but fail to find any clue. The body had not been robbed.

Melville left the house and walked about 200 yards, where there is a big tree. Here he was pounced upon by his assailant, who wielded the knife, cutting Melville's throat from ear to ear and severing the jugular vein and windpipe. In spite of his severe wounds, Melville ran 50 yards to where his body was found this morning. No theory is advanced for the murder other than Melville was mistaken for some other man.

MT. PLEASANT.

MT. PLEASANT, Oct. 23.—The children of the Mt. Pleasant public schools observed Arbor Day Friday afternoon in a very practical way, by planting shade trees in Hick Park. The proposition was taken up at the suggestion of the Mt. Pleasant Civic Club and so favorably considered that 42 shade trees were planted by the pupils representing the rooms and classes in the school.

The students met in their rooms as usual and marched out to the park in groups, each room planting a shade tree, and among the incidents in the planting of the trees the planting of a carefully selected battle at the front of the tree containing the enrollment of the class by which the tree was planted, and the class rolls distinguished each group from another. Many photographs were taken by the prospective classes when the ceremony was completed.

Chick specimens of maple and elm had been purchased from a local dealer. The trees were planted in avenues under the supervision of O. P. Shupe of the Park Commission and will in a few years make a park beautiful and accomplished fact.

For pain in the breast take a little Painkiller in sweetened milk and water, bathing the breast in it at the same time. If the milk passages are clogged, from cold, or other causes, bathing in the Painkiller will give immediate relief. Ask for New 80c Bottle.

SATURDAY EVENING, OCT. 23, 1909.

HALLOWEEN IN CONNELLSVILLE.

Connelleville is promised a jolly Halloween celebration this year, and it will be a gratifying change from the old-fashioned and out-of-date malicious mischief which was once regarded by an element more or less reckless as fun.

But that was a result of that Puritanical spirit, which forbade anything like this revelry, which insisted upon boys and girls going to bed with the chickens, which demanded the suppression of all noises on the streets after 9 o'clock in the evening. It was a different age, a different people and a different condition.

The streets were dark then and the always darker. The way was open for all manner of dark doings, and many of them were merely senseless piffing and destruction of property. There was no incentive to masking and revelry on the streets, and there would have been no disposition to consent to it on the part of the authorities.

With changed conditions has come changed customs in the matter of celebrating this merry event. The custom of masking and revel began in the cities where the white lights first appeared and has spread gradually into all modern towns.

Many of our neighboring towns have inaugurated the custom officially, and this year Burgess Evans has given it his sanction. In his proclamation, elsewhere published, he sets apart Saturday evening for the fun.

If the weather is fair there will be a big crowd, which will be swelled by visitors from the neighboring towns and villages, and a merry time may be anticipated.

We will hope it will be so.

THE LIFE AND VALUE OF OUR COAL FIELDS.

The estimate that there is enough coal left in the United States to last for over 7,000 years is perhaps based on all the known coal seams and upon present requirements. The mining of most of the known coal seams will involve an immense increase in the cost of production; and the production of 1908, upon which this estimate of consumption is based, was far below the average which is certain to materially increase with the nation's progress in manufacturing.

It is a fact, however, that the better seams of coal are being mined out with a comparative rapidity, which makes it plain that their present values are very much smaller than they are destined to become within a very few years. Experience has shown that coal investments have been almost invariably profitable, often magnificently so; and present prospects indicate that this prosperity is not at the flood, but is really only beginning.

Connelleville is the center of the best coal beds in the country. The next best lie in the neighboring sections of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. This fact accounts for the present active buying of these coal lands.

DEMOCRATIC AMENITIES AND JOURNALISTIC COURTESY.

The amenities of the judicial campaign are being sadly disturbed by Democratic rudeness and recrimination.

Candidate Umbel's chief organ, the Uniontown Outlook, refuses to print ex-Candidate Dunham's communications regarding the Fairbanks hotel incident in answer to Candidate Umbel's denial. Quite in contrast with this course, the Republican papers of the county have published Candidate Umbel's communication without hesitation, in fact The Courier published it without any request.

The Courier is a newspaper. It never loses sight of that fact, whether in or out of politics. It has printed the news of the judicial campaign with the same impartiality it prints any other kind of news. It confutes its political views to its editorial columns, and it believes that every other well-regulated newspaper should do the same.

A newspaper gains in reputation and influence by being fair in its news columns, firm in its editorial columns and courteous at all times.

NO PANIC-BREEDING RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

President Taft tells the Texans that he does not favor drastic legislation concerning the railroads, but only such reasonable and proper regulation as will insure fair treatment to the public.

One of the contributing causes of the recent money panic, and the ensuing two years of depression and general suffering, was the fear on the part of the owners and holders of railroad securities that railroad legislation would be so drastic as to seriously impair if not actually destroy the values of such securities. The owners sought to unload them and thus depreciated the prices; the banks who held them thereupon demanded additional security or the liquidation of the loan; thus did threatened drastic railroad legislation become an important contributing cause of the panic.

The railroads are satisfied with the Government regulation enacted, and they are generally speaking meeting the new conditions imposed in good faith. Those who do not are being compelled thereby by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The railroad situation is satisfactory to the public, and the President does not propose to disturb it at the behest of wild-eyed reformers or demagogic politicians.

The business interests of the country are beginning to understand and appreciate the fact that they have a safe and sane President.

A RIGHT CONCLUSION BUT A WRONG PREMISE.

A Dunbar citizen writes us as follows:

You say "the Coke Producers' Association is punished by the liquor problem." Why don't they apply the same remedy there as they do to stop hucksters and small storekeepers from taking orders and delivering goods? If it is the law and is approved by the court in one case, why not in another? The principle involved is the same.

Our correspondent is right in his conclusion, but wrong in his premise. The liquor courts have disapproved of "the principle involved."

Daniel Sturgeon wants it known that Alfred H. Jones and Robert E. Umbel are not the only candidates for Judge in Fayette county. Daniel Sturgeon is a candidate for the prohibition ticket, and in large black letters he tells a breathless and anxious public that both Jones and Umbel have admitted that he will grant liquor licenses. That is a different age, a different people and a different condition.

The Connelleville Ice Combine may be a Benevolent Assimilation for better service without increased cost.

Connelleville is attaining the proportions of a wholesale town.

Up in Uniontown it has become a habit of the people to drop their demands in the street, rush frantically to the newspapers and advertise their loss, then go back to the place where they released their spunk and pick it up. All of which, certain piddling Uniontown papers give us to understand, demonstrates the value of advertising.

The judicial campaign is running to poetry, and the poetry is as bad as some of the things the candidates and the politicians are saying about each other.

The West Virginia feudists have long memories.

The discovery of additional Connelleville coal on the Herd tract, and the continued operation as a custom coal proposition of the old Wheeler mine for the past couple of years, indicate that some of the early mining operations of the coke region were not thoroughly and systematically worked.

Dawson thinks it is about her turn to have a free bridge, and after Point Marion, we think it is.

Connelleville newsmen can play the part of gallant gentlemen with becoming modesty.

Uniontown capitalists are determined to pull the Summit property out of the hole and set it on the peak of prosperity again. Uniontown is fortunate in having a number of substantial citizens who are men of public spirit as well as prosperity.

The bounteous crops are accompanied by plenty of game. It is perhaps Nature's plan.

The closing down of the Bluestone carries its little earlier than usual, but it is not in the nature of a calamity. The deposit is too valuable to remain long in a state of inactivity. There are other valuable mineral deposits there which must be long at the attention of capital. Bluestone may hibernate this winter, but it will doubtless have an awakening in the springtime.

The Chamber of Commerce managers announce with some emphasis that the association is not a junk club.

Dunbar township school authorities make it clear that the compulsory school law will be enforced. The law was enacted for a wise purpose and it is the duty of all directors and officers to enforce it.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is a big thing to Connelleville and our citizens as a rule have a just appreciation of the fact.

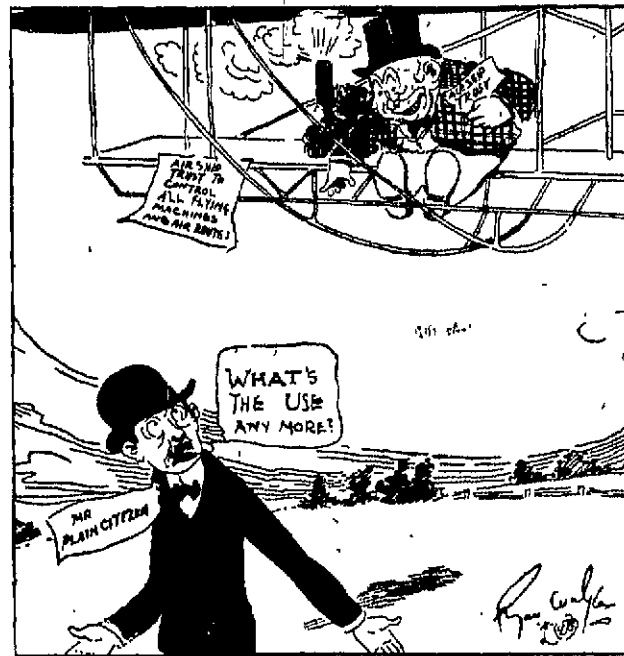

An English nobleman in disguise is reported to be hunting coal investments somewhere in these diggings and it is suggested that perhaps he would not be averse to investing in an hotel, too. The average titled foreigner might do worse, and the average American business might do better.

A mother does not have to kidnap her child and should not be permitted to do so. There is a more orderly, wise and just method of deterring a misparent should have the custody of the child.

In the midst of attitudes and divorces, desertions and duels, it is refreshing to note that a poor but honorable young Ohio man ran away from a rich Ohio heiress because he thought himself unworthy of her warm love and cold cash, but that he was pursued clear across the Continent to California by the heiress and just conspired to marry her. It's a pretty tale, but an unusual one. Opportunity seldom comes so persistently on a man's trail.

Scottdale Celebration an Assured Success Next Friday Evening.

A BIG PARADE IS ARRANGED

Miss Nannie Monroe Married at Dover—Examination For Help at the Postoffice—Real Estate Sold by the Bank.

SCOTSDALE, Oct. 22.—The candidates for Judge and minor offices in Westmoreland and Fayette counties will be invited here to take part in the celebration of Halloween on Friday evening, October 23, and to get their troubles in a few hours of excitement. This was decided upon at the meeting of those interested in the celebration held at the Borough building last evening. The Burgess will likely issue a proclamation asking the women, women and children of this community to observe the celebration. Since the municipal authorities have taken hold of the matter and set apart a regular time the youngsters will be placed on their honor to refrain from destructive amusements that night or any of the other nights. The celebration of Halloween in the past by the town itself has been the cause for tearing of garbs, overturning outbuildings and fences and doing such other devilish things. The youngsters will be asked to cut out entirely the observance of "Cauld Night" which in many towns is not productive of great mischief and considerable damage. The police will take a very severe hand in the doing of those who go about with chalk marking people's clothing and otherwise making nuisances of themselves.

Twenty-five prizes have already been collected to be awarded for different events of the evening, such as a safety razor for instance for the winner with the longest whiskers. The committee will make up a list of the prizes and what they will be awarded for. Many have said they will be in the parade.

The parade is an assured success, if the weather is at all decent Friday night. There will be six bands in line, three brass bands, and three other bands. There will be musical music to wake the community. Several have also been invited to take a part. There are no special invitations issued as the affair is not of that formal nature and the time is too short. Everybody is cordially invited to take whatever part they see fit. Several of the lodges intend to take out. The parade will form at Louisa park on Chestnut street and Artion avenue, go up Louisa avenue on Grove street, down Pittsburg street and out Broadway to the West Penn viaduct according to present arrangements.

Bought Big Horse.
The Onondaga Horse Breeders' Association sold their big horse, Bright, red, bay, 16 hands, 16 years old, the finest and the only one of the kind ever sold in this county. The horse was owned by a number of citizens and has an excellent record. He was bought by Edward Anderson for $750.

Visiting in Pittsburgh.
Charles A. Albert and George H. Shupe of The Independent and J. Howard Cramer of The Observer expect to go to Pittsburgh this afternoon as the local representative of the Scottdale papers at the meeting and a banquet of the Westmoreland County Press Association at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Returned From Lancaster.
Mr. and Mrs. James B. Taylor, of near town, arrived home from a trip to Lancaster and spent last night with Mr. and Mrs. John D. Kelly. They were away for three weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hepler of Lancaster, and made a thorough inspection of the country around Lancaster with which they were much pleased, and are considering moving into that beautiful farming country.

Attractions at Solon Theatre.
Wednesday, October 27, Clarence Bennett's wonderful production of "The Holy City." Prices, 35, 50, 75 cents. Boxes, $1.00. Seats now on sale at the theatre.
Saturday, October 30, matinee and night Lillian Russell's great racing drama "Wildfire." Matinee prices, 25, 50, 75 cents. Seats now on sale at the theatre.

Cake Walk Coming.
Numerous humble footed cake walkers are preparing to enter the list at Morgan next Monday evening. Con Valley lodge of the F. C. K. of P. will hold the cake walk and local representatives, headed by Charles Abel will leave Bridge street by wagon, and accompanied by a brass band at 7:30 Monday evening. The committee on arrangements is composed of W. S. Murray, Peter David David White and A. G. Reiss. S. E. Smith is manager.

Wed in Colorado.
Miss Nannie E. Monroe, daughter of Mrs. Emma Monroe, of Scottdale, and Howard Calvin Frank, of Denver, Colorado were married at that place on last Saturday, and following the wedding the couple were given a reception in their new home. The bride is a popular young lady of twenty and was employed in the telephone exchange of the H. C. Frick Coke Company here. Before leaving for Denver she was presented with a handsome chest of silver and a linen set as a wedding present from the employees of the office. The groom is a well known architect of Denver.

Campaign Signs Are Up.
An extraordinary public was around yesterday looking up cards on telephone and light poles calling attention to Judge Doty's claims for reelection as the Democratic representative of the judiciary in Westmoreland county. He was at Broadway and Pittsburg street where there is an ordinance against advertising bills being so posted on the poles and declared that the Burgess had given him permission to post the signs. Some of the local merchants and advertisers say they expect the same permission to be granted for their advertising hereafter.

Assessors Were Out.
W. L. Schaffer, assessor in the Third Ward, and Dr. W. F. Shotts, assessor in the First ward, were on Pittsburg street yesterday measuring the fronts of the properties going down the Third ward side and coming up the First Ward side. It is said that the assessment will be made $200 for each front foot.

Postoffice Examination.
Need of additional help in the Scottdale postoffice caused Postmaster B. C. Freese to post last evening notices of a U. S. Civil Service examination in the local office. The examination will take place on November 6, and all those desiring to enter it must obtain the regular blanks from Miss Kate S. Bonner, the local representative of the Civil Service Board not later than 4:30 P. M. on November 2.

Expensive Real Estate.
Real estate is being sold by the bucketful in Everson, and yesterday a Polish woman had to pay $10 for a few buckets of earth taken from one of the Everson lots. The woman was prosecuted before Judge Clementine by C. C. Livingston, who charged her with larceny.

The Tigers again took the lead in the Connelldale Duckpin League last night but it took some rolling on the Temple alleys to make the difference. After winning the first game by a narrow margin the Jungle boys could only the Robert Norris' lunch in the second. That gave them stage fright. The third game saw both teams rolling up to their topmost speed. The Topnotchers went up to 528 while the badly frightened Tigers didn't stop until they had clinched the contest and reached 570.

In the last game two players on each team rolled better than 100. C. W. Downs rolled 117. Beehner out of a record by setting a new individual mark of 117. Beehner went after his own record with a vengeance but fell a single pin shy, rolling 116. J. A. DeMuth topped them at 108 while H. E. Schenck rolled 101. The scores follow:

CHAPTER XV.

THE Durant gun works was in a fever of excitement. Ever since the forging of the Sommers gun events of importance had happened in such close succession that about the works generally was the feeling of stunned amazement. The office force and even the bands when they met would look at each other fearfully. What would happen next? No one could tell. But all were sure something dreadful might be expected.

First had come the fight in the furnace room, when Sommers was nearly killed; then the discharge of Smith, but with the rumor that he had gone to work in another plant controlled by Mr. Durant; next had followed a terrible explosion of the Sommers gun, and now was the shipwreck, the wonderful rescue through the bravery of Sommers and Frances, and finally to culminate in a final investigation to be held in the Durant works. No wonder the thousands connected directly and indirectly with the Durant works were in a fever of excitement.

The story of the heroic rescue had been told over and over again. All knew how Frances voluntarily had stayed behind on the wrecked yacht to share apparently certain death with the heroic young naval officer. It was plain that she loved him and he loved her, and all the gossip was spinning their imaginations to conjure just what would be the result when the girl's lover was tried at the court martial for the loss of his gun, forged in her father's works.

As soon as the Mongolian reached New York the survivors of the wreck had landed. Pinckney hurried to Pittsburgh on the first train, but Sommers stayed over a few days to make the trip with Frances and her mother. Mr. Durant had met them there, and all came on together. The steel man was not given to many words. Sommers was equally reticent. They had with mutual respect and esteem, but there had been no words of the relation which all knew must exist between the young officer and Frances. The girl had said nothing. Even her mother was not in her confidence.

On the trip from New York to Pittsburgh Mrs. Durant had found time to take up the subject with her husband. "It's no use, George," she said. "Edward hasn't a chance. That wreck killed any feeling she ever had. We were all in the wireless room, and when he began to huddle and read foolish messages Mr. Sommers just caught him by the collar, pulled him away from the key and put him outside. If you had seen Frances' face then you would know Edward was done. You must give Mr. Sommers every opportunity to clear himself of blame."

George Durant nodded in agreement. "I'll give him every chance, my dear," he said. "Give him a chance, that's all any man can ask."

Now the day of Sommers' chance was at hand. For Mr. Durant had put his books and the entire force of the works in charge of Bradley to ferret out the truth.

Pinckney, with a few hours' start, hurried to the works as fast as possible. He wanted to meet Marsh before the investigation began. He must know what Marsh had told Bradley. Their stories must agree. But the first hurried question brought another surprise to the chief conspirator.

"I haven't seen any secret service man. There hasn't been any around here," protested Marsh.

Pinckney shook his head impatiently. "Don't be foolish, Marsh. You saw him and talked to him. He questioned you here nearly a month ago. His name was Bradley."

Marsh, thoroughly frightened at the idea of secret service men working on a case, could only redouble his protest. "I haven't seen him. I haven't talked to anybody I didn't know in a month."

Pinckney gave a relieved sigh. "But then he bluffed me. He said, 'But now listen. This investigation is coming off today. We're all right. If you keep your head for half an hour you can't go wrong. And we begin work on a government contract for the Rhinestrom tomorrow.'"

"What must I say?" inquired the inventor of the Rhinestrom gun weakly. "Swear that Smith was drunk and say that I and Sommers were in the furnace room when the gun went into the tempering bath. Then Bradley can't prove anything to save his life. Don't let him frighten you. He'll try to, but keep your nerve. If he asks you about the Rhinestrom gun don't know anything about it."

Marsh, naturally nervous, was now trembling with fear. "You know of those killed and wounded, Mr. Pinckney? We both deserve state's prison for it."

Pinckney grabbed the little man by the shoulder to shake some courage into him. "Don't get chicken hearted, you fool," he cried angrily. "I feel as bad about the accident as you do, but we can't think of any neglect or wrongdoing, and you can depend on me to work my head off to clear him. Everything will depend, however, on what I can get from Marsh."

From looked surprised. "I can't think Marsh is guilty," she said.

They were still in the inner room when Bradley, cool and debonair, as usual, strode into the outer office. "How are you?" he said genially to Maxie O'Brien, the pretty stenographer, peering away in one corner at her machine. "I was looking for Mr. Pinckney."

"He's in the inner office with Mr. Marsh," responded the girl.

"Sure. He sent for Marsh as soon as he came, didn't he?"

"Yes," replied the girl curiously. "How did you know that?"

Bradley smiled. "Mind reader," he suggested, then added, with a serious explanation, "I have an engagement with him, so I thought they'd be waiting for me."

"Shall I tell him you are here?" asked the stenographer.

Bradley made a hasty objection. "Oh, no, don't bother. I'll wait till they get through. I was just going to see them on a little business about the Rhinestrom gun. And that reminds me, give me Mr. Rhinestrom's address, won't you? I have to drop him a letter."

"Rhinestrom's address?" she asked curiously.

"The man nodded. "Sure. Rhinestrom, the inventor of the gun that was shot down."

"You need not come back to me, for I will come to you."

"Why, I've never sent him any letters," Marsh returned curiously. "If you want his address, why don't you get it from Mr. Pinckney?"

Bradley smiled. "That's a good idea," he said. "I'll just do that. You take all Mr. Pinckney's dictation, don't you?"

The girl had begun to wonder at the questioning. Bradley looked well and was pleasant. But what did he want?

"Yes, I take Mr. Pinckney's dictation," she agreed cautiously.

And he's never written to Rhinestrom? demanded Bradley, with sudden sternness.

For a moment the girl stared up. "Say, you are a son of a gun? What do you want? Are you trying to pump me?"

Her questioner smiled blandly. "Oh, please don't suggest such a thing," he said. "I'm going in the works now to see a man named O'Brien. When Mr. Durant comes tell him that Mr. Bradley of the secret service is in the works, then send for me, Goody. Much obliged for what you had to tell me."

Maxie O'Brien leaned back in her chair, looking after Bradley with a curious expression on her face.

"Well, what do you think of that?" she said to herself at last in astonishment. "Him a detective? Well, he's a pretty good looking fellow—after a fashion. I wonder where he is. I remember he was around here a month ago."

Two minutes later the detective was back in the office in time to meet Frances entering with Lieutenant Sammers.

"I'm glad you're here, Miss Durant," he declared earnestly. "Would you mind if I ask you some questions on investigation?"

"The girl smiled at the idea. "I'll mind," she exclaimed. "You know I'll do anything in the world I can to clear Mr. Sommers of any blame. Have you found out anything so far?"

Bradley shook his head. "I've got no positive proof, but I think I shall have before this investigation is over."

"And Mr. Sommers will be cleared when he goes before the court of inquiry at Washington?" persisted the girl.

Bradley nodded. "I certainly hope so, Miss Durant. You know how much I owe to Mr. Sommers and to you. I feel sure he is innocent of any neglect or wrongdoing, and you can depend on me to work my head off to clear him. Everything will depend, however, on what I can get from Marsh."

From looked surprised. "I can't think Marsh is guilty," she said.

"I can't think Marsh is guilty," she said.

THEATRICAL NEWS.

The Holy City.

Most strikingly effective of all the religious dramas ever presented is "The Holy City," Clarence Bonnett's powerful and interesting play, pictures with vivid strength and masterly power, the scenes and incidents leading up to the betrayal of the Master of Judaea.

The drama of Judaea, the daughter of Herodias, before King Herod, is shown in her successful play for the first time. After John's death, events move with great rapidity and the plotting and scheming of the high priest and the Pharisees with Herod are depicted as well as the giving of the thirty pieces of silver to Judaea, who promises to betray Jesus into the hands of his enemies.

The presence of Jesus, of course, only suggested, but so cleverly is this done that the spectator seems carried back two thousand years and fancies himself an actual witness of the great scenes which accompanied the enactment of the greatest tragedy in the history of the world. Other scenes depict the convulsion of nature at the moment of the crucifixion, the suffering of the remorseful Judaea and the bringing of the glad tidings of the resurrection.

The entire play is a drama of simple majesty and wonderful interest, and is presented by a company of stirring players. "The Holy City" will be presented at the Soloson Theatre Wednesday, October 27, with its anchor, Mr. Bennett, in the dual roles of John and Judaea.

admitted anxiously. "He's been in the works for years, and nothing's ever been said against him."

Bradley nodded. "I know all that, Miss Durant. But may I tell you a secret? I believe Marsh is the inventor of the Rhinestrom gun, and if I can prove that the rest is easy."

"And if you can't?" the girl asked fearfully.

Bradley smiled with confidence. "I never let myself look on that side," he said. "Now I must leave you. I'll be back in a few minutes."

When the door had closed on Bradley, the girl turned impulsively to Sommers at her side.

"What will you do if you find they are against you?" she asked bluntly.

The man looked at her seriously. "There is nothing that I can do then, Frances. I'll be disheartened, a disgraced man."

"You mean," she persisted, "if this investigation discloses nothing and the court of inquiry at Washington finds against you that you will not come back to me?"

"An expression of pain crossed Sommers' face, but his answer came out straight: "How could I come back to you, dear? A cowardly, mean officer, disgraced for life, couldn't come to you. I couldn't ask that sacrifice of you."

Impulsively the girl had laid her hand on his arm.

"Then listen, dearest," she said softly, but with determination that would not be denied. "If the Washington authorities place the blame of the accident upon you, if you are disgraced and disgraced, you need not come back to me. She paused a moment, then added softly, raising her eyes to him,

Mother and Son Are Murdered by Robbers.

MUCH MONEY KEPT IN HOUSE

Grant County, W. Va., Aroused Over Murder of Mrs. Edward Reid and Her Son Croker—Woman Had Sold Cattle and Robbers After Money.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 23.—The neighborhood of Medley, Grant county, W. Va., is aroused over the murder of Mrs. Edward Reid and her son, Croker Reid, who lived a mile from the town. The tragedy is supposed to have followed an attempt to rob the Reid home. To the double murder was added arson.

Neighbors were attracted to the place by seeing the house in flames and when they arrived the building was almost entirely destroyed. In the ashes, later, were found the charred remains of young Croker Reid. Near where the mother's bed had stood, was recovered a portion of her body, all having been consumed but the trunk and the head, which were charred.

The Reids went to Medley from Texas several years ago and it was understood they kept a large amount of money in the house. Three years ago the father died. Mrs. Reid had just sold some cattle and in paying her taxes at Medley with the check she received about $200 change.

The son evidently was killed in the barn, on the floor of which his hat was found containing a hole, supposedly made by the instrument which he was killed. From the barn to the house blood tracks were found and the young man's body was either dragged or carried to the house and thrown on the floor.

Whether the mother was killed or died from suffocation is not known, but it is said an examination of what was left of the body indicated the skull may have been crushed in. Near the bodies lay a woman's hammer.

Bloodhounds were taken to the scene, but so far no clue to the murdered has been found.

PRESIDENT OPPOSES

Crude Legislation to Cover Operation of Railroads.

Grocery, Tex., Oct. 23.—In a speech at Corpus Christi President Taft paid his respects to the anti-railroad agitators. Seated on the platform with him was Governor Campbell of this state, who was elected on an anti-railroad legislation platform, and who has been one of the very best state legislators. Said the president:

"I am not in favor of drastic legislation against railroads except such as is necessary to keep them within the law and to keep their rates reasonable. The truth is we want to encourage our railroads. We will rush 30,000 of us in a county to vote bonds for a railroad if it only comes in. Then it comes in and after a time you won't find a friend of that railroad in that county, except, perhaps, the local council."

"Then you will proceed to legislate and you will do injustice to that railroad but after a while, after you have done injustice to the point where you don't get the proper accommodations and where you drive them into a system of economy that does not build up your country, you finally begin to realize that the only good policy, as we call it, is the only honest policy, is a square deal to the railroad so as to give them the rates they ought to have and not allow popular prejudice to deprive them of reasonable profit on the investment, including the risk that they made when they went into the business."

The big audience applauded the president's statements, while Governor Campbell was engaged in studying the heavens.

NOTHING BUT AUTOS

All Other Vehicles Prohibited From Taft Parade at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 23.—This is an automobile age and we will have nothing but horseless vehicles in the parade. This is the ultimatum delivered by the secret service department to the chairman of the local committee arranging for the reception of President Taft on Oct. 27.

The change has created a sensation among some members of the smart set, who still stick to the old fashioned open victorias and broughams as the proper car for state occasions, but the edict issued by Luten C. Wheeler, advance secret service agent, settles the controversy. Automobile men say the parade may be a frost because of the severity of machines.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth?

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect. You cannot cure dandruff and baldness by rubbing on hair tonics and rubbing in vasoline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out. Netro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Connellsville Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back; the annoyance of urinary disorders; the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Connellsville citizen says:

H. D. Barclay, 128 Snyder St., Connellsville, Pa., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills without hesitation as I know them to be exactly as represented. Last spring I suffered severely with lame back and pains across my loins. I was unable to rest well at night and it was difficult for me to stoop or stand erect. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage, highly colored, and contained a dark sediment. I finally obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they acted promptly in regulating the passages of the kidney secretions and removing the soreness in my back and through my loins. I am now able to rest well at night, all symptoms of my trouble having left me. I give the credit of my cure entirely to Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Winter is fast approaching. One of the most important parts of a man's or woman's winter clothing is underwear, and the best place to buy it that we know of is at Union Supply Company stores. The Fall lines of Underwear for men, women and children are now all in. They have been purchased from the best manufacturers in America. The stocks of this class of goods taken out of our sixty-three stores and put in one pile would look almost as big as Pine Knob, would make a big double-header train.

Buying it in such large quantities and paying cash for it naturally gives us a great advantage as to price. Our customers get the benefit of all this. We are selling Underwear in our stores cheaper and have a greater variety, we believe, than you can find elsewhere.
